MEMBER BENEFITS

- The CBHL Newsletter keeps members advised of significant events, exhibitions, notes from the annual meeting, new publications, and activities of fellow council members.
- The CBHL e-mail distribution list is an electronic forum for discussions among CBHL members.
- Institutional members may join the Computer Consortium, a botanical and horticultural resource sharing group. This group access capability is provided through the services of the Online Computer Library Center (OCLC).
- CBHL also facilitates resource sharing by providing opportunities for its members to circulate lists of duplicates and desiderata to other member libraries.
- An annual meeting hosted by member institutions is held each spring.
- The printed Membership Directory is available to members only.
- Past publications include the seed catalog directories and the Plant Bibliography Series.
- The Web site, <http://www.cbhl.net>, offers access to electronic information resources and serves as a gateway to CBHL's "Ask a Plant Librarian" reference service.

CBHL

Membership Application

CBHL is the leading professional organization in the field of botanical and horticultural information services.

CBHL believes in the crucial importance of collecting, preserving, and making accessible the accumulated knowledge about plants for present and future generations.

Therefore, CBHL provides an organizational framework and an active forum for institutions and individuals concerned with fostering the advancement of botanical and horticultural information and information services.

The Council on Botanical and Horticultural Libraries, Inc. (CBHL) is an international organization of individuals, organizations, and institutions concerned with the development, maintenance, and use of libraries of botanical and horticultural literature.

Members share information about significant events, exhibitions, new publications, career opportunities, challenging reference questions, and activities of fellow council members by means of a quarterly newsletter, a Web site, an active members-only e-mail list, and an annual conference.

The annual meeting, hosted by member institutions, offers the opportunity for members to meet one another and discuss matters of mutual interest and concern while enjoying a unique insider's view of the host's facilities and resources. Recent meetings have been held in Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York, San Francisco, Denver, Washington, D.C., and Albuquerque.

These yearly meetings have included lectures on the care and preservation of collections, digital initiatives, garden literature, and botanical art. Featured programs and committee and business meetings are complemented by onsite study tours of neighboring gardens, libraries, and historic attractions.
